Jos Bloemen has been part of ViskoTeepak since 1985, starting during a difficult economic period in Belgium. He began as a draftsman at Teepak, the company's former name, and quickly secured a permanent position after colleagues left the department. From the beginning, Jos was drawn to the international nature of the company and the wide variety of mechanical and chemical techniques involved in the work. Today, he works as a Project Coordinator & Drafting, combining his deep technical expertise with project management.

Over the years, Jos has witnessed a remarkable transformation in the way of working — from manual drafting to the adoption of 3D design and digital factory models. One of his proudest achievements is the construction of WP3 in 2015, a large-scale project where he played a key role in managing the mechanical and piping aspects.

Trustworthy

If you described ViskoTeepakin one word, what would it be?

"Trustworthy. The past 40 years have truly flown by. I have always worked at ViskoTeepak with great pleasure and motivation, and I will continue to do so for some time. Throughout the years, ViskoTeepak has always been a fantastic and trustworthy employer."

For Jos, teamwork and an open company culture have always stood out. His collaborations with colleagues across locations like Brno and Hanko are some of his fondest memories.

Looking ahead, Jos sees creativity, innovation, and collaboration as essential to navigating future challenges such as sustainability and new technologies.
