In 2025, ViskoTeepak reaffirmed its belief that true strength comes from people working together. Under the banner of “We Together,” colleagues from Delfzijl (Netherlands), Kenosha (USA), and Nuevo Laredo (Mexico) joined forces to improve printing capacity and quality across all sites. The result: stronger collaboration, consistent standards, and greater reliability for partners and customers worldwide.

Teams travelled across borders to share knowledge, assess equipment, and test new solutions. From modernizing decades-old machines in Kenosha, to efficiency methods in Nuevo Laredo, and water-based ink expertise in Delfzijl, each location contributed insights that raised the collective level of performance. Operators, engineers, and managers stood shoulder to shoulder — one team with one mission.

The project highlighted how collaboration translates into progress. Improvements such as enhanced drying systems, upgraded ink mixing, optimized training, and long-term equipment upgrades will directly strengthen product quality and delivery dependability. Most importantly, the initiative established continuous communication between all plants — ensuring that “We Together” is not just an idea, but a way of working, growing, and leading into the future.
