New Color Sample Tool: A Smarter Way to Explore Casing Colors

ViskoTeepak has launched a new digital feature on our website: the Color Sample Tool. This tool gives customers and partners an easy way to explore our full range of casing colors across cellulose, fibrous, and plastic casings. It is designed to make the color-selection process faster, clearer, and more convenient—no matter where you are.

The Color Sample Tool works as a simple online simulator. By choosing casing type and color, users immediately see a visual preview. This helps teams compare options, plan projects, and discuss ideas without needing physical samples at the early stages. While nothing replaces real product testing, the simulator offers a reliable first step in exploring what is possible.

STEP 1:

Select the desired color and you will immediately see a visual preview.

To support this new feature, we also created a Color Samples overview page, where users can see all available colors in one place. The information is structured, easy to navigate, and offers a quick way to understand the range within each casing category.

Together, these updates mark an important step in making our website more user-friendly and our product knowledge more accessible. The tool is available for everyone and will continue to improve as we develop our digital platform.
